THROWING back the great bronze bolt on the ornate front door of a drowsy mansion, Blair Stanley dashed from the vestibule and around the house, closely followed by Vivian Marston and the trembling Arthur. There, beneath the high window, lay the battered body of Frank Durand. His neck was broken. But his right hand had relaxed and "The Diamond From the Sky" was gone! Arthur covered his eyes to shut out the gruesome sight, while Vivian and Blair exchanged significant glances.

"Did you see the struggle?" she asked. "It must have been De Vaux who killed him."

Arthur had been too dazed from the shock of the sleeping powder to have anything but a confused notion of what actually had occurred.

"I heard the light in your room," Blair said. "He must have been De Vaux who killed him."

FOUND REPRAPRISED; NEW SCHOOL IS IDEAL

Grand Jurors at Hyattsville Also Critical of Condition of Highways.

HYATTSVILLE, Nov. 8.—The final report of the grand jury for the October term just returned stated that a number of complaints had been received about the condition of the roads in the county. The report said: "Many of the thinking citizens do not believe that they are getting full value for the $45,000 spent on our roads and bridges. We would suggest the more extensive use of road machinery in rounding up our roads as a measure of economy. There are some dangerous spots in the roads where the road directors are not as prompt as they should be in repairing same after notification."

The tax rate question was also brought into the report, which stated: "We believe that if the county commissioners will exercise a little scrutiny in scanning our bills it would result in a material reduction of our tax rate."

The grand jury reported it had examined 135 businesses and found thirty-eight true bills.

In connection with the recent school fire in Peabody, Mass., the following excerpt from the report is interesting: "We would call the attention of the proper authorities to the condition of the Capitol Heights school. Here is a modern, sanitary, eight-room brick school building completed since last May standing while 400 young school children are housed in a frame shack in a deplorable sanitary condition and a veritable fire-trap, where several hundred children and their teachers stand a chance of losing their lives. We recommend that the building be furnished at once."

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowledge's Dandarine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself how it is so pretty and soft as any that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lose it if you will just try a little Dandarine—Add.

The winning of more than 1,500 new members for the various Baptist churches of the district and the probability that at least that many more will be added to the church rolls because of professions of faith, combine the results of the two weeks city-wide campaign conducted by twenty-four evangelists and singers in this city. While the campaign proper closed with the meeting last night for "night prowlers" at the Cosmos Theater, there will be a continuation of daily services in four or five of the churches. The Rev. Dr. Weston Bruner will remain here a week longer with several of his assistants.
